PEMBROKE LADY

Weds a St. Louis Drummer
at Hotel Latham.

Mr. Walton Mannen, of St. Louis, and Mrs. Carrie Rawlins, of Pembroke, were married yesterday afternoon
at three o'clock at Hotel Latham, Rev. W. E. Mitchell, of Pembroke, officiating. Mr. Mannen is a traveling representative of a St.
Louis house. He and his bride left last night for St. Louis.

DRAKE AND WOODRUFF

Convicted of Killing Officer

R. H. Coffey Pardoned.

GUS LYONS RETRACTS.

They Have Served Three
Years of a Life Sentence In Prison.

John Woodruff and Francis Drake were pardoned last Tuesday by Beckham.

It will be remembered that these men, after many delays, were sentenced to the penitentiary for life by the Christian Circuit Court at the February term in 1903, charged with the murder of Deputy Sheriff R. H.
Coffey during the mining trouble at Empire, about five years ago.

One Guy Lyons, alias Reynolds, was arrested with them at the same time. He turned State's evidence and it was partly upon his testimony that Woodruff and Drake were convicted.

Since that time Guy Lyons has been arrested in Logan county, tried,
convicted and sentenced to be hung,
along with others, for committing an outrage upon the person of Miss Marie Glader. Now that he sees that he is going to die for this crime,
he confesses that he killed Sheriff Coffey, and that he swore lies in order to lay the blame on Woodruff
and Drake.

The Governor's pardon is based upon the recent statement of Lyons.

Moves to Guthrie.

The Rev. Israel G. Joiner, of Bennettstown to Guthrie, where they will make their home in the future. Rev. Joiner has been a resident of this county for half a century. Prof. R. T. Joiner and wife accompanied Rev. Joiner to Guthrie, and the family will make their home with Mr. Joiner's older son, who has been engaged in the grocery business
there for several years.

Arc Lights.

The City Light Co., has received a new machine and turned on the arc lights as a test last night. Should the machine do what is expected, another circuit will be turned on tonight. The Northern circuit was tested last night.

Xmas Goods.

Our stock of Holiday Goods is much larger and more varied than ever before, consisting of the most exquisite line of

Imported Fancy China,
Bisque Figures and Statuary French and German China Dinner
Ware, Etc.

Washstand Sets, Glassware,
Lamps, Carving Sets, Silver Plated
ware of all kinds, consisting of knives, forks, spoons, sugar shells, nut sets, chafing dishes, etc. Also a nice line of pocket cutlery, razors, brass fire sets, coal vases and many other useful as well as ornamental articles. Don't make your purchases before seeing our stock.

Very Respectfully,

W. A. P'POOL & SON.

A GAME OF SCARE

Sprung On Box Renters By
P. O. Department.

The many persons who pay rent at the post office were not a little surprised in the middle of last week by finding in their boxes a blue card on which appeared the familiar words,
"Box Rent Due." As they had prepaid the present quarter's rent
they could not imagine why such an order had been promulgated. An inquiry to the deputy postmaster elicited the information that orders had come from headquarters to collect box rent for the new quarter before the expiration of the old one.

We don't know how many hundreds of thousands of post offices
Uncle Sam has, but we do know that if every box renter in the United States would pay his 50 cents two weeks in advance the Government would have the use of a large sum of money two weeks for notching
at the expense of the people.

In other words, people are not to have the usual ten days' grace to pay their little fifty cents per quarter for their own convenience, but more for the convenience of the men in the post office, and if you do not pay up the last day of December
your box will be declared vacant.

But there is a way to evade
any law so is there a way to evade post office orders and get a box and hold your money to the last moment.
If you have to give up your box on January first apply for another, pay your 50 cents and you will have a rest for another three months.

While the people are trusting Uncle Sam to keep good his bargain for three months, it looks very much like the Postmaster-General
but has little confidence in the people that pay for the running of the Department. It looks like the P. M.
G. wants to make a "little rep" by his new departure, and he must admit he is a second Roosevelt.

APPOINTMENTS

Made to State Normal
School Saturday.

County Superintendent of Public Schools, W. E. Gray, has made the following selections for this county
to attend the State Normal School, established by the last legislature. The appointments were made last Saturday:

Misses Mary L. Atkins, Annie
Bruff, Etta J. Bruff, Florence Gray,
Lola Goodin, Addie Fuller, Susie
Goode, Minnie Brumfield, Mary Suse-
gent, and Mr. Marion Rawls.

Loose Floor.

Tobacco on the loose floor is selling fast and at active prices. We quote
the largest sale of the season:

Trash	$4.25 to $4.50
Low lugs	4.50 to 5.00
Common lugs	5.00 to 5.50
Medium lugs	5.50 to 6.00
Low leaf	6.00 to 7.00
Common leaf	7.00 to 8.25
Medium leaf	8.50 to 9.50

If you will send a real good crop of tobacco to the loose floor, you will get $1.00 per 100 more than you can get anywhere else. I haven't offered any fine tobacco and have to quote prices on such as I sell, and you see I have not been able to get a good crop on my floor. If you want to make money come on.

H. H. ABERNATHY.

HUSBAND AND WIFE

Both Pass Away Within One Week.

Mrs. Bagby, widow of A. C. Bag-by who died near Garrettsburg on the 9th inst., passed away Sunday night.
She was ill when her husband died,
and survived him only one week. The body was interred by the side of that of Mr. Bagby yesterday afternoon.

Anarchists Beware.

Hopkinsville has taken the right
step in the matter of protecting the interest of the town and county.
The tobacco factories and other property is to be protected and in the event an attempt is made to burn or destroy property, the attempt will be met with power and ball.

POLICE RAID

A Crap Game and Pull a Dozen Offenders.

The officers' dream of toasting
their shins by the fire during a lull
in a continuous season of law observance was dissipated Saturday,
and they came forth from their resting place ("if they ever have one) with a determination to pull and straighten out any one who was going wrong. Several who were tanking up gradually found into the condition that requires both sides of a side-walk to enable them to get from one part of town to another, but the blue-coats, being on the qui vive, kindly took them in out of the disagreeable weather. Then half-a-dozen negroes had found a sequestered nook where they imagined
they could indulge their passion for gambling in the darkness, to them, way of shooting craps. But the officers got on to their little game and took them in also. By this time the lock-up was beginning to be crowded.

But like a crowded street car, there is always room for one more when the Hopkinsville police are "out for bear," and a couple of "cussers" were also added to the number who thought the situation too much crowded for comfort. It was made more so for them by the ushering in
of a fellow for breach of the peace and another for carrying a concealed deadly weapon. In all there were 18 arrests from Saturday morning to Sunday—9 drunks, 6 gamblers, 2 cussers and 1 who thought he might need a gun to protect himself in an impending scrimmage.

It may not be pleasant news to any others who may be meditating a "little fun" forbidden by statute or ordinance that the officers from now until the close of the year, are going to be unusually vigilant and arrest is sure to follow any breach of the laws of the city or state.

"COMMODORE" BRAIN,

Well Known Here, Dies at Tampa, Fla.

John C. Brain, who spent some time in Hopkinsville a few years ago, died last week at Tampa Fla. While here he was known as "Commodore" Brain and claimed to have served in the confederate navy during the civil war. He carried numerous scars, which he proudly exhibited as evidence of his having been in the "thickest of the fight" on numerous occasions, one of them in his forehead being sufficiently large and deep to hide an English sparrow. Brain went from here to Owensboro and from there he went South. Nothing more was heard of him until the news of his death reached the city.

Misses Mary L. Atkins, Annie
Bruff, Etta J. Bruff, Florence Gray,
Lola Goodin, Addie Fuller, Susie
Goode, Minnie Brumfield, Mary Suse-
gent, and Mr. Marion Rawls.

A Hopkinsville citizen speaks
here.

Speaks from experience and conviction:

Miss L. A. Hester, 212 East 4th Street, says: "To walk for any distance is to suffer. I have been in pain for a week from which I was for a long time a continual sufferer, and if I caught cold it seemed to settle in the same region and made me most miserable. As I was rising in the morning I felt stiff and the pain often forced me to drop and dress myself. Another symptom of my complaint was a weakness of the kidneys which annoyed and distressed me beyond words. I doctored but found little if any relief until I tried Doan's Kidney Pills which had been recommended to me and which I procured. Then did me a vast amount of good. The pain in my back ceased, the secretions were regulated and my health was improved generally."

LITTLE VISITS WITH UNCLE BY

Just a Minute

The clouds are floating in the sky—
There'll be some more, too, by and by.

The birds have gone to winter climes—
The cold man—No, I'll spare you that;

Perhaps your wife, too, needs a hat;
It must flow that way, don't you see?

The leaves are floating with the tide—
The leaves are falling, all alone;

The bride to be is making clothes—
She needs 'em badly, goodness knows!

The clouds are floating in the sky—
I'm shy about one square, I fear;

I need a new tall overcoat—
I'll write a line or two

And get another one quite new;

That always makes my banker think!

He thinks I've overdrawn my pile—

He thinks I've overdrawn my pile—

And then I sneak around some day

And put in all my weekly pay—

I tell you what, this "writin' pays!"

At times I get five cents a line—

But then I get a line or two ink;

Some day, before I hit the hearse,

I'll write a piece of thrilling verse

That'll make you sit up in your seat;

You bell! Won't that be pretty fine?

I can't to-day—Now, don't you rave—

My face feels like a black-bird tree—

I've got to get it planned, you see—

"Sister, sister, you say?" "Your stuff is Well, well! Great Scott, but you are

I thought you liked the simple stuff,

The "true" nature of gum

At times I'll get the old man—

And get my face all planned and clean

And come right back here to the spot

So long! Be good! Don't fuss and cry—

I won't be long!

YOURS UNCLE BY.

Fancies.

The suburb where I live is swell;
One couldn't ask for more;

There's only one place that I like;

It has no "New York Store."

The man who falls from the top of the mountain always has a chance of catching on the lower rung. In other words, he may "strike something"

coming down.

WOMAN.

She's slight and slender and somewhat frail;

She's delicate made and fair;

She knows that some day she will catch

Her death of cold, and fade!

She wonders why she sneezes so

What to do, to call the doctor,

And wear a cold garment won't come off

With decollete cut clothes.

She saunters about the sleepy streets

On shopping duties, meet,

While on her shoes are paper soles—

And wear a cold garment won't come off

With decollete cut clothes.

She saunters about the sleepy streets

On shopping duties, meet,

While on her shoes are paper soles—

And wear a cold garment won't come off

With decollete cut clothes.

The West wind whips her silken hair,

And chills her ankles trim.

The West wind whips her hair in the chest

And numbs her with a vim.

Yet still she stands there, blue with chill

And hears the latest tales—

Then wonders how she caught that cold

Why, why, why, this and that!

O woman, woman, please wake up;

Quit driving in your coffin lid

Each day another nail!

Statisticians are complaining that although they have conclusively proved that bacilli are transferred by the art of kissing, osculation continues to run on unrestrained. The statisicians seem to have overlooked the fact that the American people are not only affectionate, but brave.

A Milwaukee woman who is in the habit of softening the city water with ammonia before taking her bath, got the bleaching bottle by mistake the other evening and now she is as blue

as a whale.

Chicago wants her streets kept clean,

On Lipson wants the cup-

but it is a sign of the right.

They both must give it up!

A Matter of Standard.

BY JESSE STRONG.

(Copyright, 1906, by Daily Star Pub Co.) Bill Mapes did not belong to the "uplift." Far from it. Indeed Mapes was one of the citizens of the semi-world against whom the very strong and stern anathema of the better classes were directed.

Now Mapes on cordial terms with the police, in fact he would go to some considerable pains to avoid social intercourse with the guardians of the law. And by the same token the blue-coats would move rather faster than usual to enjoy the pleasure of Mapes' society. But then Bill had a secret. He was a member of the blue-coats and brass-buckles and stars and clubs and all that sort of thing. Perhaps he was not wholly responsible because the prejudice may have been inherited.

It is to be recalled that his father, Bill Mapes, had been a member of the police before his happy taking-off at the end of a rope in a quiet jail-yard on one memorable day after the society of the blue-coats had been thrust upon him in a most shameless manner.

It is also a matter of history that the gentlemanly members of the blue-coats had a meeting of their own on this occasion and congratulated and complimented Mapes openly and often until some months later when it was born to their intelligence that young Bill Mapes had succeeded to his respected sire's estate and was following, in no uncertain terms, in his father's footsteps.

From all of which it may be deduced that Bill Mapes lived and breathed and had his being without the law of the land and that he would not have been a welcome visitor at your home at the witching hour of midnight.

Young gentle reader, you have guessed right; Bill Mapes was a burglar, a thief, a crook and earned his bread by appropriating the product of the sweat of the other fellow's brow.

And yet Mapes was not a bad sight to look upon. He was a well-built, strong fellow, and had an air of splendid strength with marked grace of action. His features were rather well-formed and his eyes clear and blue and laughing. He was not a fearless object to look upon—excepting when desperate or angry, and then he was a thunderbolt of action and of passion.

It is inevitable, of course, that Mapes should occasionally be the guest of the police, but despite all their most energetic invitations he had successfully maintained his modesty and evaded any considerable strain upon their hospitality.

Upon his every appearance in the police court, however, there had appeared also a most charming feminine vision—a delicate, modest, brown-eyed girl whose beauty was all hearts and whose tears moved the sternest police justice to sympathy. She was a mystery to the police court and inspired the entire community with a wonder in whom she seemed to have such deep interest, so to concern. After full and free discussion it was duly decided that she was a settlement worker or something or other of that sort who was grieved over Bill Mapes' soul and was trying to help him.

And when she berated him as a dog all bowed before the dainty brown-eyed divinity.

Now it must be evident to the reader at this point that Bill Mapes was not an idealist, nor a leading citizen, nor a pillar of society, nor anything of that sort, but this simple tale is written to show that every fellow has his own standards and his own ideals.

One soft summer evening Mapes appeared at "Brown's Triangle," a rather bad place in a very bad neighborhood—a spot which policemen avoided when on duty, and a section of the notorious "bordello" of the Anti-Climax society. He did not enter the flatiron-shaped saloon but going into one of the darkened streets, emitted a shrill whistle. Presently a curtain upstairs was cautiously pulled and a face peered forth. Upon a further signal the curtain drew and a moment later a street-door opened and Bill faced his brown-eyed divinity of the police court. Lo and behold, far from being a settlement worker she was only the daughter of Ike Brown, the keeper of the notorious "Brown's Triangle" where, according to the police, more robberies were committed than in any other spot in the city.

"Howdy, Nan," said Mapes in a voice somewhat strained with embarrassment and taking the girl's extended hands awkwardly. "Never events."

"I didn't expect you," exclaimed the girl before upon him with the glories of love-light, which, after all, is an there is in life."

"Nan, but I'm here," he responded, comfortably.

There were some moments of silence during which Bill's rising rage accumulated the "slender hand" of the girl. A busy policeman wandered by and Bill was scarcely quicker than the girl to shrink into the shadows.

"D— him, I'll get his job," grumbled Mapes.

"If you don't dad will," replied the girl. "I got his number—#4741. I know him."

"Say, Nan, what d'ye say to get married, buyin' a house and settlin' down?"

This very bravely said in a voice betraying love, mystery and surrenders.

Nan looked him over more shrewdly. "What d'ye mean, Biff?" she asked, seriously.

"Nan," he said, leaning toward her and placing his arms half way around her. "We got the game heat. Come on and let's live like nine-time sports."

"How'd ye do it, Bill?" she asked, quietly.

"Look here, say," he replied, soberly to get things right for you and me—but it's been hard. Now last night I happened onto a most exclusive party of gents—the real kind. I wasn't exactly invited, you know—but just happened in through the window. Gee, the sparklers der was in the cuffs on de tables and de shirts in de closet."

"Did ye get 'em?" asked the girl leaning forward eagerly.

"Naw," replied Mapes leaning back comfortably. "I heard somethin' dat's wort' more'n all the sparklers I ever seen."

"Yes," encouraged the girl.

Mapes settled himself comfortably in the doorway. "Well," he said with provoking deliberation, "there was a couple of swell talkin' right in front of me before I broke past de curtain."

"Well?" encouraged the girl with shining eyes.

"Well?" responded Mapes. "I had to quit and I had to listen. Gee, but it was fine listenin'!"

"Well?" interjected the girl.

"Well?" responded Mapes. "It was Bill Stillingfleet, de president of the Cincinnati Anti-Climax, and Knute Angussen, de swell young teller—an' day talkin' brass ticks for sure."

"Well?" was all the girl said.

"Well," responded the man with a show of irritability. "It's jus' dis way. These two guys was goin' to bust de bank for a day or two more for $1,000."

"What did you do?" asked the girl.

"What did I do?" he replied, scornfully. "I sneaked away. There's a bigger game in this dan'rous city. I guess, and I laugh, and I have a good laugh when I get a dollar or two more'n $300,000. I hear about all them."

proper strength. The exact working formula for making these medicines cost Dr. Pierce and his collaborating Chemists and Pharmacists many years to find out, and when they did find it they produced almost perfect pharmaceutical compounds embodying all the active, medicinal properties of the various ingredients employed, and this, too, in such form and combination as to keep unchanged in strength and value the use of which is entirely avoided.

PROOF POSITIVE.

Without solicitation, Mrs. J. Harrison, of New York, Minot, N. D., wrote me as follows:

"I suffered for more than seven years with a very complicated form of female complaint, accompanied by great debility, and after doctoring with six physicians all failed to find a remedy. I was told that unless an operation was performed I would die. I was told that the wonderful cures effected by Dr. D. V. Pierce's remedies were only a delusion. I determined to make one more effort. I wrote to Dr. Pierce for his advice, telling me to follow his instructions, and I did so. I am now perfectly recovered, improved after six weeks' treatment. I am now in full health. I am so grateful to friends that they began to inquire about my physician. I told them of Dr. Pierce's wonderful means of cure that I had most fortunately found. I then wrote to Dr. Pierce for information regarding Dr. Pierce's works, and he very kindly sent me a copy of his 'Great Medical Discovery' being 'Galen's Medical Discovery' being Galen's Secret. I have a copy of the book, Black Cherrybark, Mandrake root and Bloodroot. The 'Favorable Prescription' from Blue Cohosh root, Lady's Slipper root, Unicorn root, Goldenseal root and Rattle-snake root, these ingredients being macerated for a long time at a rather high temperature in a menstruum composed of chemically pure glycerine, of

You can buy these tickets on the first or third Tuesday of each month for a short time. Homeseekers' excursion tickets good 30 days for return with stop-over privileges in both directions.

A Chance to See the Southwest at Little Cost.

If you are looking for a new location in a growing country where land is cheap and fertile, where the climate is mild and healthful, where you can pay for a big farm in a year or two and live comfortably while you are building it, you should investigate the country along the Cotton Belt route.

Tell us where you want to go and we will plan the trip for you, tell you cost of a ticket from your home town, and save you unnecessary expense looking around.

You will want to know something about the country before you start. Let me send you the handbooks, illustrated books we have for free distribution.

LADIES' OR MISSES' DOUBLE BREASTED BOX COAT.

6232

Pattern No. 5259—This stylish box coat is made in a double-breasted style with machine stitching for a finish. The coat is adjusted by the usual shoulder, under-arm and back seams. The fullness in the back is confined by a strap that buttons to the side seams. The front lap is in double-breasted style and fastened by buttons. The coat is provided for open or sleeveless, full bishop sleeves completed by a turn back cuff, or plain coat sleeves finished by a hem. If three-quarter length is not desired, the garment may be in the fashionable long term. Covert cloth, broadcloth and the rainproof fabrics are all adaptable to the mode. The medium size requires four and one-half yards of 44-inch material. Ladies' or Misses' Double-Breasted Box-Coat No. 5259. Sizes for 30, 32, 34, 36, 38, 40 and 42 inch busts.

This pattern will be sent to you on receipt of 10 cents. Address all orders to the Pattern Department of this paper. Be sure to give size and number pattern wanted. For convenience, write your order on the following coupon:

PLEATED DRESSING SACQUE.

Pattern No. 5685—Dainty simplicity characterizes this pretty little negligee developed in cream colored figured challis. Deep plies are stitched to yoke depth in the front, and extend to the waist-line in the back, giving that trim neat appearance, preferred by many, for a garment of this style. The pattern provides for full length or the fashionable elbow sleeves, finished by turned back cuffs and neck completion is afforded by a broad round collar. Satisfaction results may be obtained in cashmere, French lace, China silk, damask and satin. For 36 inch bust measure three and one-quarter yards of material 36 inches wide will be required. Sizes for 32, 34, 36, 38, 40 and 42 inches bust measure.

This pattern will be sent to you on receipt of 10 cents. Address all orders to the Pattern Department of this paper. Be sure to give size and number of pattern wanted. For convenience, write your order on the following coupon:

New Facts About Plant Life.

A recent scientific observation relating to plant life indicates that external factors may have an important bearing on the character of plants reproduced from seeds aside from the qualities of the parent plant. It is known that the reproductive organs immediately previous to the application of pollen has been noted to exert a profound influence on hereditary qualities, resulting seeds producing plants entirely different from the parent plant.

LOCAL UNION

Of Endeavor Societies Agreed On Sunday Night.

The union services of the Christian Endeavor societies at the Christian church Sunday night were largely attended. Three societies were represented—Cumberland, First Presbyterian and Christian. Rev. H. D. Smith presided. The meetings were addressed by Revs. Biddle, Bull and Smith. Miss Annie Smithson closed with a good talk on prison work by the local societies at Eddyville.

Before being dismissed it was determined to vote to then and there declare for the organization of a union of the three societies. A committee will prepare a constitution and by-laws for adoption at the next union meeting. Sunday night services took the place of the regular night services at the three churches.
